Application Guidelines
We are pleased to announce the 2018 TERMIS World Congress in Kyoto; the premier event for the dissemination of cutting edge research in tissue engineering and regenerative medicine. The conference is the official World Congress of the Tissue Engineering and Regenerative Medicine International Society, Inc. (TERMIS), whose purpose is the worldwide advancement of both the science and technology of tissue engineering and regenerative medicine.

The 5th World Congress will be held from September 4 to 7, 2018, at the Kyoto International Conference Center, Kyoto, Japan. The theme for the 2018 TERMIS World Congress is “Integration of Industry, Government, and Academia for Regenerative Medicine,” reflecting the importance of strong cooperation of Industry-Government-Academia to realize tissue engineering and regenerative medicine. To this end, the 2018 scientific program will focus on the innovative technologies, regulation, and commercialization within tissue engineering and regenerative medicine. The TERMIS-WC 2018 Kyoto is co-hosted with The Japanese Society for Regenerative Medicine (JSRM).

The TERMIS World Congress is held every three years, and brings together researchers, scientists, clinicians, trainees, and students from both academia and industry to discuss critical developments in the field. The conference is led by plenary and keynote speakers each day and consists of parallel technical sessions as well as poster presentations. A strong role in the meeting planning and execution will be played by the TERMIS Student and Young Investigator Section (SYIS).

Regenerative medicine is defined as an advanced medicine technology that enhances the natural-healing potential of the body, which is based on the cells ability for proliferation and differentiation. If regenerative medicine is realized, it will be an ideal therapy to gently implement to the human body. Our scientists and clinicians are working diligently to bring regenerative medicine therapies to the patients.

Regenerative medicine is classified into two fields: regeneration therapy and regeneration research. Regenerative research includes cell research and drug discovery. To realize both the regeneration therapy and research, it is of prime importance to enhance the cells ability for proliferation and differentiation. To further improve both the fields, the further development of stem cell biology is undoubtedly necessary. In addition, it is practically indispensable to develop biomaterials technology and methodology, so-called tissue engineering to provide cells with a good, local environment to allow to enhance the cells ability for tissue regeneration.
To realize the regeneration therapy, there are two practical approaches: cell transplantation and tissue engineering. In the former, cells with a high ability for proliferation and differentiation are expanded in vitro and transplanted into the body. Based on the inherent ability of cells transplanted for tissue regeneration, tissue repair and disease healing are expected. Tissue engineering is a newly emerging biomedical technology or methodology with biomaterials to provide a local environment which enables cells to enhance their proliferation and differentiation for cell-induced tissue regeneration. Cell transplantation therapy will be further improved by combining with tissue engineering. In addition to the scientific technology, discussion about the quality control of cells, life ethics, and regulation is required to bring the regenerative medicine therapies to fruition. Regenerative medicine is an interdisciplinary field it is imperative for the collaboration and integration of industry, government, and academia in order to further the developments of regenerative medicine therapies.

During the World Congress, we encourage you to submit an abstract for consideration for an oral or poster presentation focusing on engineering, medicine/dentistry, pharmacology, and science. Your contributions to will help to formulate the program. We are strongly convinced that this congress is also a good chance to create and deepen the human relationship among researchers, scientists, clinicians, trainees, and students from both academia and industry.

We are currently planning the TERMIS World Congress 2018 Kyoto zealously to allow many delegates with interests in the field of tissue engineering and regenerative medicine to attend the congress. We greatly appreciate your support and assistance to succeed in the academic and industrial activities of TERMIS World Congress. The World Congress organizing team cordially invites you to participate in the 2018 TERMIS World Congress in Kyoto, Japan.
